

... providing unique “Aloha Aina” team building opportunities for discerning organizations

“The loveliest fleet of islands that lies anchored in any ocean” – so wrote Mark Twain about Hawaii and it remains true to this day. Every day, the Aloha State welcomes and charms visitors with its hospitality, beauty, frangipani-scented sea breezes and tropical warmth. This is not simply a destination where East meets West but a special spot where cultures merge and flourish. It is where we find traditional culture and customs, myth and magic, a vast array of activities – both in and out of the ocean - wonderful restaurants and a wide range of first-class accommodation. It is where we each find the Hawaii that we love the most.

It is also a great destination for meetings and conferences, an important component of which is often a team-building event. Effective organizations understand and emphasize the importance of group communication and co-operation, and Hawaii provides the perfect opportunity to take advantage of a special, unique type of team-building.

Teams Give Back Hawaii organizes “Aloha Aina” events for its clients. Aloha Aina means love of the land. The Islands are full of tradition and history that emphasizes respecting, and giving back to, the land. Our team-building events enable visitors to participate in a way that contributes to the Aloha Aina philosophy and leave behind something of lasting value. We work with clients to identify and match needs with that of a Hawaiian non-profit organization dedicated to preserving and enhancing natural resources, such as botanical gardens, nature reserves and sea mammals. Sample components include landscaping, planting, dam-building, clearing and painting.

We are sensitive to the sometimes limited resources of non-profits and also to the level of professionalism demanded by the clients that we serve. Our integrity and high-level, high-touch personal on-site presence ensures that our events deliver results above and beyond those anticipated!

Teams Give Back Hawaii gives you the opportunity to build teams that work together to bring about significant results on a number of different levels. Even better, everyone emerges from the experience as a winner! The non-profit organizations win from the completed Teams Give Back Hawaii project; the participants win because the results of their joint achievements are so much more than the sum of the parts; and the organization wins with desired results, potential tax benefits and the opportunity for great public relations. And the participants go home feeling better about themselves and the organization for which they work. With our team-building events, everyone wins!
